Dedication

MISS IDA MAY CHEATHAM

These years-the school years-are perhaps the most important years of life. School is the formal beginning of the search for knowledge. It is therefore fitting to recognize here the one who gave many of Weldon High School students this start, and continued to guide them through the green and growing years.

For her loyalty and devotion, for her continued interest, for her wise counsel and guidance, for her energetic leadership and efficiency, we dedicate this, our 1960 "LITTLE BREEZE" to Miss Ida May Cheatham.

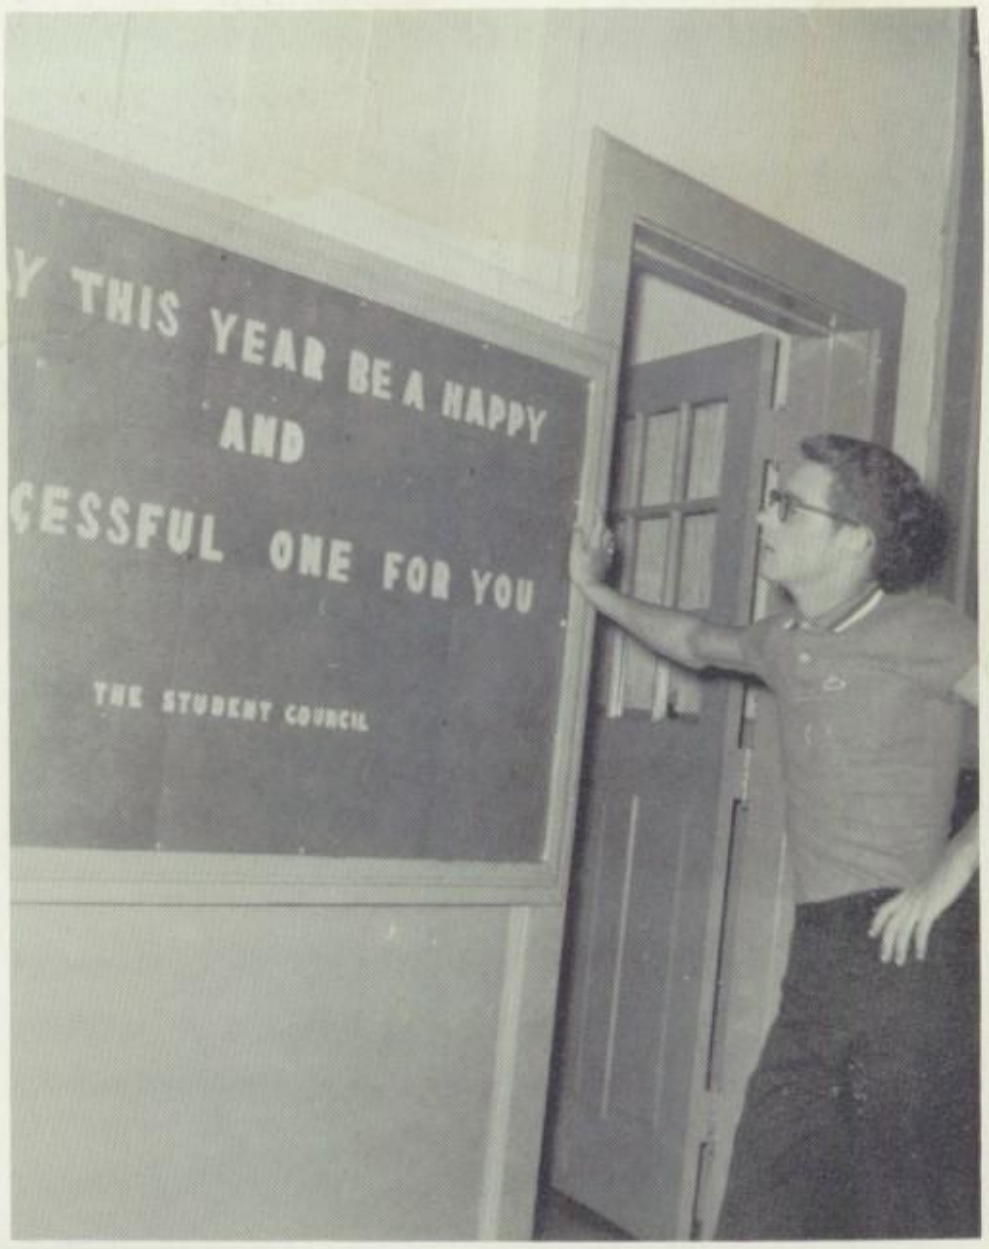
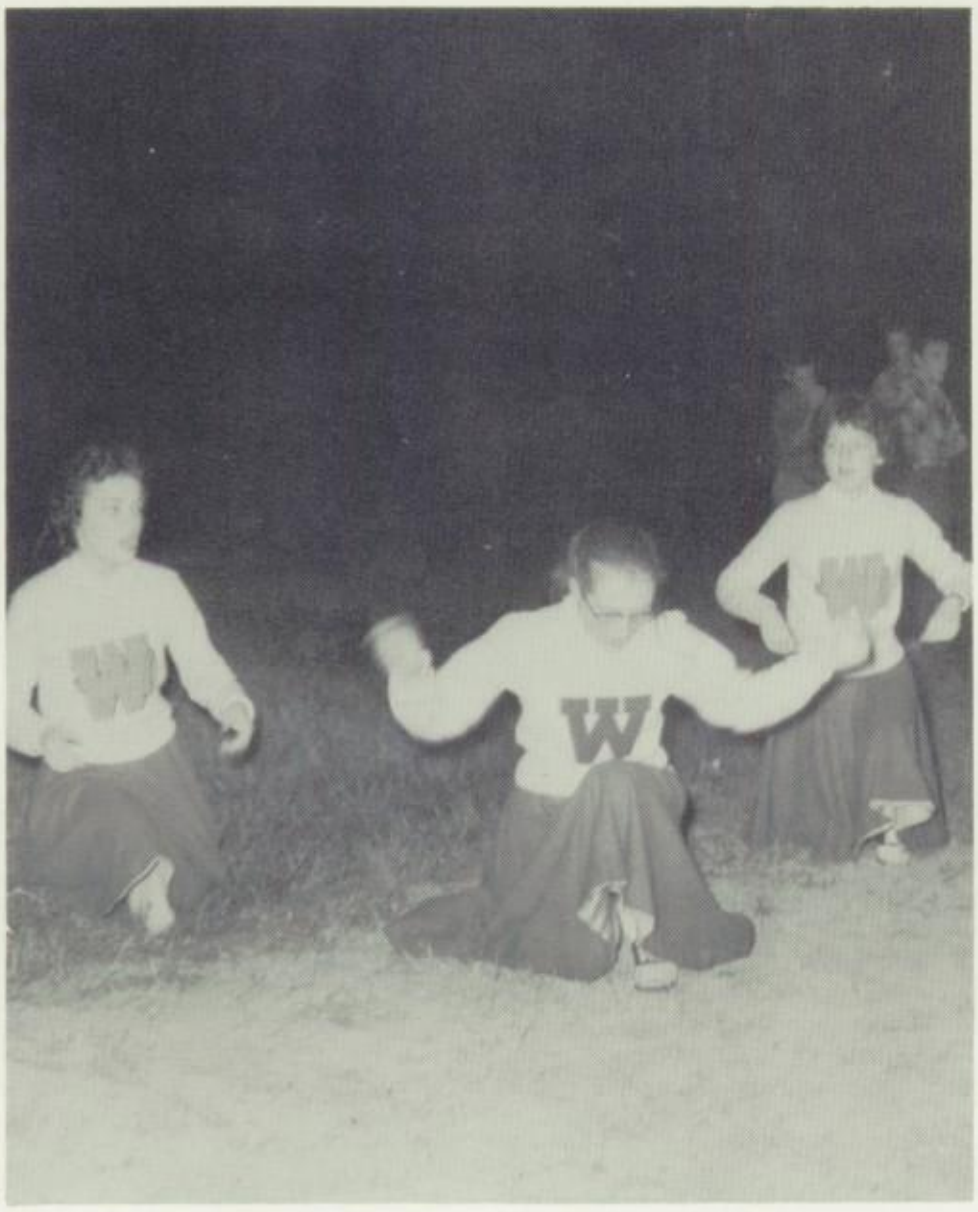
School again! The students were delighted with the prospect of seeing old friends and of getting back into the round of school activities. Once they got their books, they really felt like students again--and they felt the hole that book fees left in the pockets, too!

On the first Friday night following the opening of School, W.H.S. played their first football game with Mufrees-boro--and lost! It was fun, though, to be a part of the old crowd again, and it seemed to launch them into the school activities. Our boys won the next game.



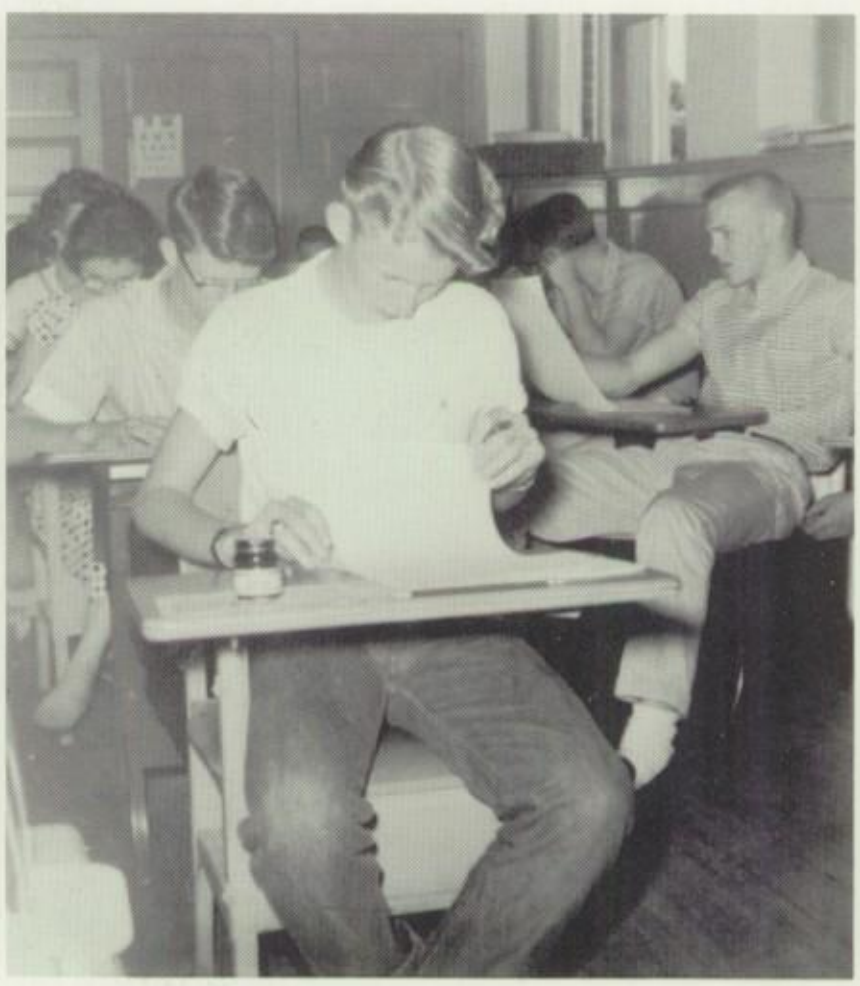


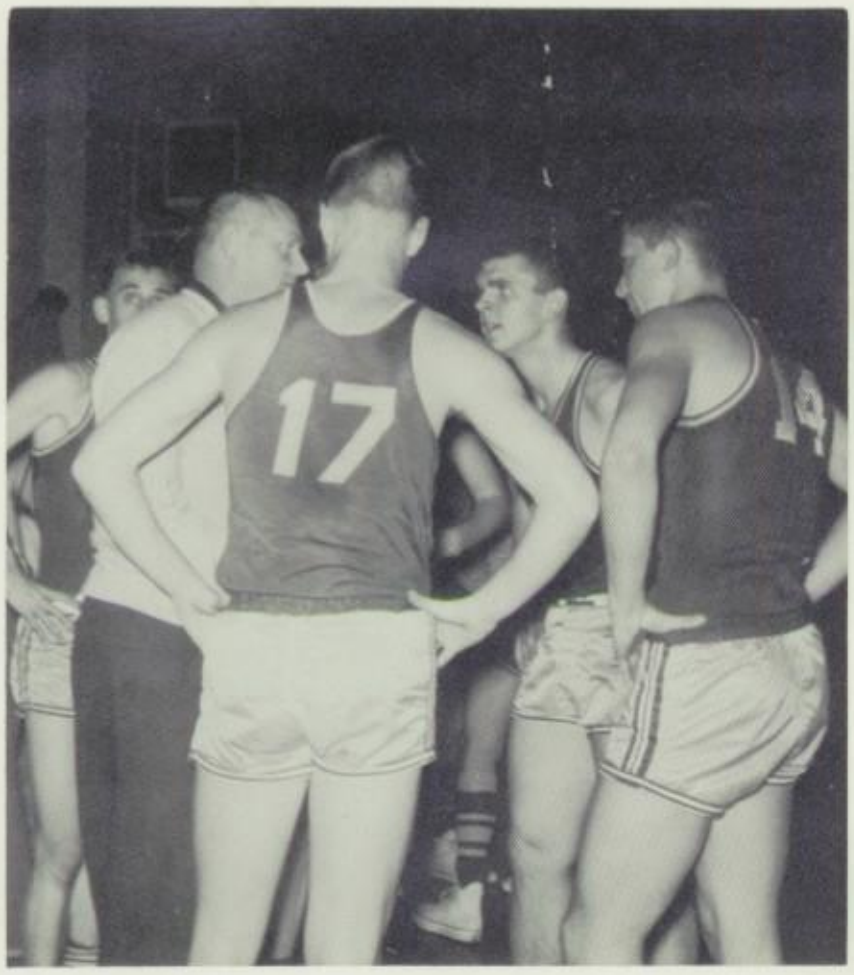
Horrors! That's what the Tri-Hi Y girls were during initiation! It wasn't unusual that week to see the girls scrubbing the sidewalk with toothbrushes, wearing "fighting" colors, or sporting "freak" hairdos. Next year, though, they'll avenge.

Homecoming was one of the highlights of the year. The Student Council worked extra-hard to make Homecoming especially pretty and meaningful. And, in spite of the rain, it was! First, they won an exciting victory over Scotland Neck. Then, the King and Queen candidates wore evening attire for the coronation. The "Downbeats" helped us carry out the theme, "I Remember When". It was a wonderful evening!

Soon after Christmas holidays the students settled down to prepare for mid-term exams, wondering if they had learned anything at all. After the first review lesson, they were doubtful, but, by the time exams began, they had refreshed their memories. Somehow though, everybody felt especially light-hearted when they were all over.

Basketball season was hard work, but each victory more than compensated for it. After each practice, the team could see the improvements they had made in their skills. Most important, they learned how to work as a team.





For the Juniors, the Junior-Senior is the highlight of the year. They convert a dream into a reality, and nobody but the Juniors realize what work there is in between. On the big night the Junior class of 1959 was proud to present "Cinderella Ball" to the Seniors.

Finally, the Daisy Chain and graduation exercises closed out the year. Students were saddened by the thought of losing their dear old Seniors, and yet inspired by the challenge presented to the Seniors as they began a new phase of learning.

The watershed of Knowledge, from which the streams
Of yesterday and tomorrow take

One to the land of darkness and of dreams.

ADMINISTRATION

Life is an eternal process of learning. Each day brings new opportunities, situations, and knowledge. To the administration of Weldon High School, the Student Body expresses deep and sincere appreciation and gratitude for their guidance and counsel as they have led the students along the infinite path to knowledge.

It is because of them, their guidance and counsel, that the minds and characters have been rightly molded, trained, and developed.

"Diffused

knowledge immortalizes itself!"

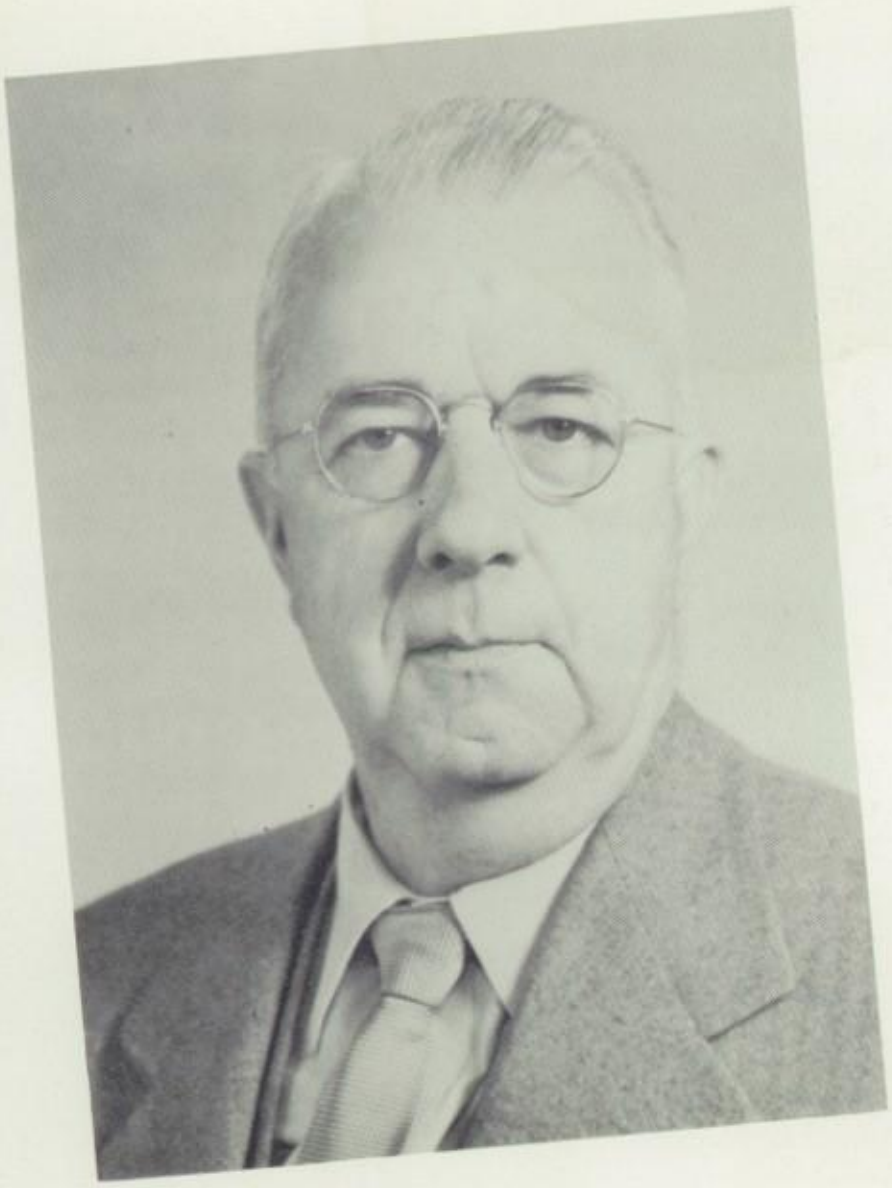
The School Board

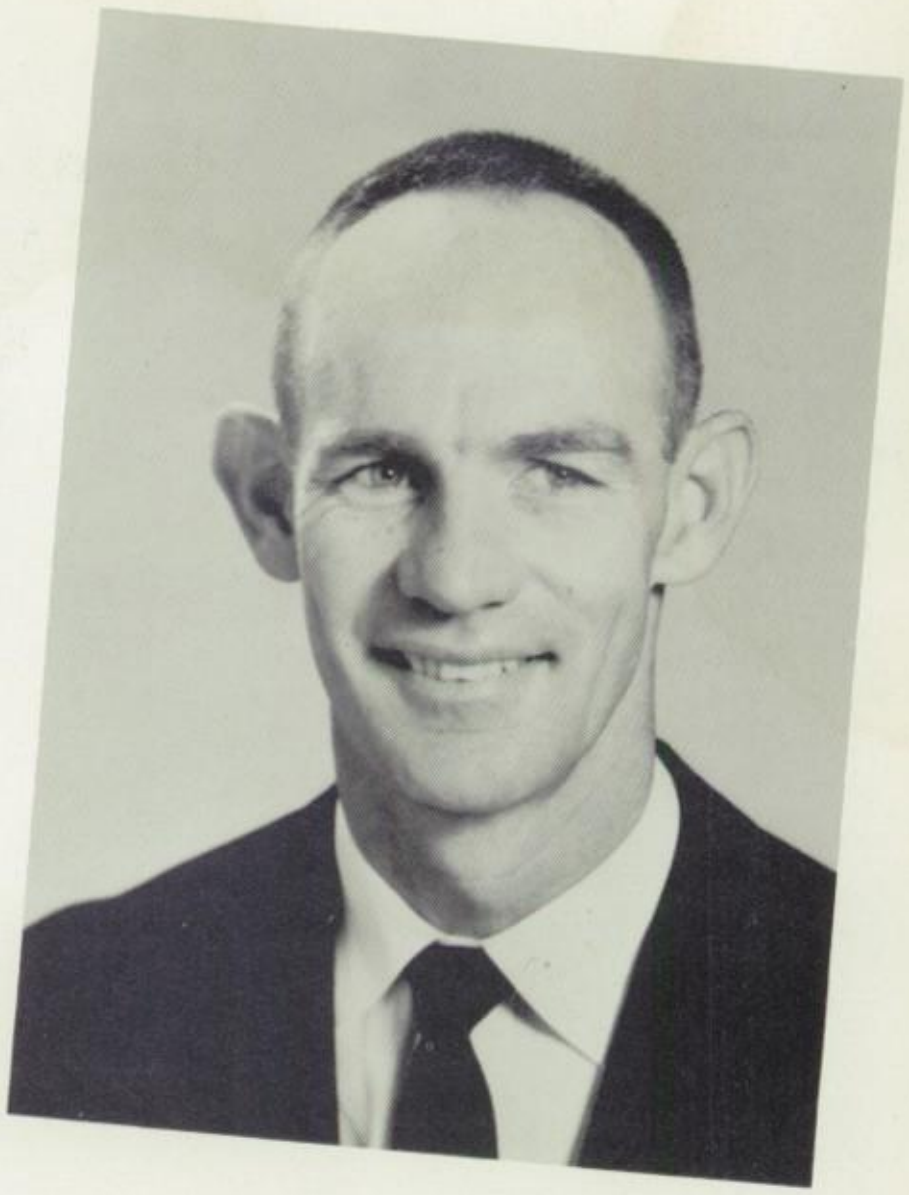
Chairman
Mr. G.E. Howell

For several years, Mr. G. E. Howell has been on the School Board. As chairman, he is faced with many extra problems and duties. Each fall, he addresses the students on opening day and briefs these "Hep-cats" on the "coolest" idea----study hard. At the close of the year he participates in the graduation exercise by presenting diplomas to the Seniors. The Student Body sincerely appreciates his wise counsel and understanding.

No one can fully appreciate the School Board unless he has served on the Board himself and is acquainted with the constant problems that confront the members of the Board. They must find suitable sites and properties for buildings, means of operating within the budget, ways to improve the budget, and countless other things. It is through their tireless endeavors and eternal searches for better ways and means that we have today's achievements and tomorrows hopes of progress. The present members of the School Board are: Messrs. G. E. Howell, Chairman; Ray Roberson, Walker Campbell, Jacob Taylor, H. V. Bounds, C. B. Thomas, (ex-officio member) Secretary, and Mrs. J. S. Selden.



Mr. C.B. Thomas, Superintendent



Mr. I. P. Davis, Principal

Administration

Miss Katherine Pierce, Secretary

To Mr. C. B. Thomas, School Superintendent, tribute is here paid for his complete dedication to the development of the students' minds and characters, and to the progress of the school.

Between teaching World History and geometry, performing the duties of principal and coaching football, Mr. Davis rarely has a free moment. The students take this opportunity to say "thanks" for the many ways in which he encourages them.

Where else is there such an efficient secretary as Miss Pierce? Each day she is faced with endless chores and yet somehow she gets them all done-disposing of correspondence, filling out or filing records, answering the phone, handling school funds, and for a month, taking over as school superintendent.

Faculty

Familiar to Mrs. Joyner's students is "Bonjour, mes élèves." This cheerfulness exhibited to all her students is just one explanation of why they all love her.

When in the midst of reading to the class, Mrs. Wallace looked up and saw someone engaged in thoughts of his own, she would politely request, "Will you please come back from the Elysian fields?"

After reviewing last night's football practice, last week's game, and proposed plays for next week's game, Mr. Davis would start the class off with "Let's hustle."

If someone protested that the Algebra II assignment was too long, Mr. Thomas would say, "Ho, that's not too much work for you to do. Hey, Hey! You want some more? Plenty more in the book."

Someone in the student council occasionally suggested some rather radical action, and Mrs. Savage would hastily reprove, "We just can't do that now! That's just not proper."

Faculty

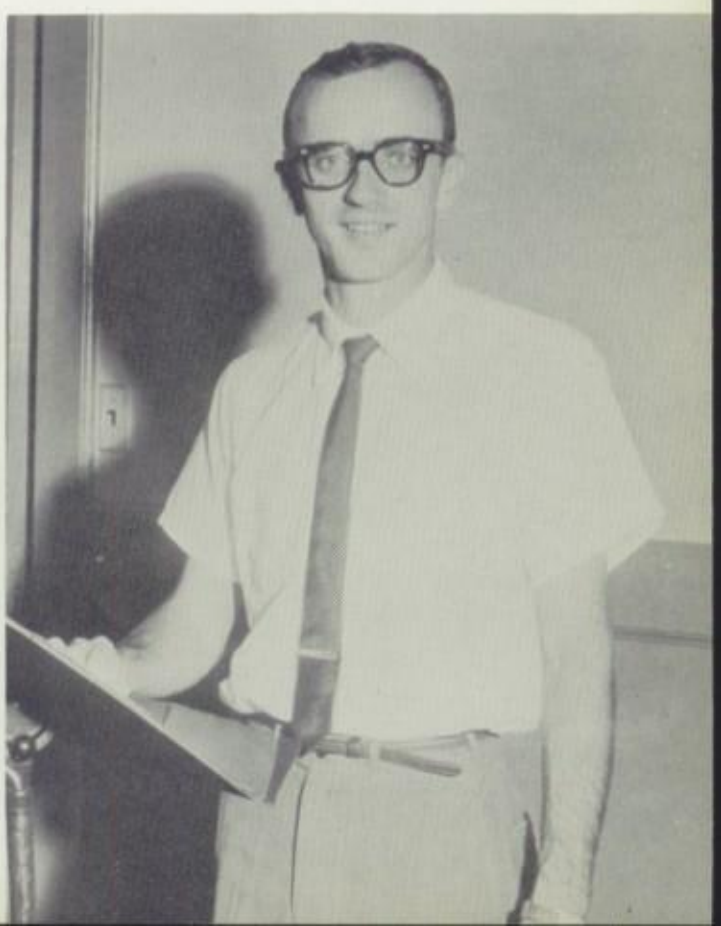
"How are you going to learn if you don't watch the boards?" Mr. Parker demanded when the students were daydreaming or talking. Some paid attention and some learned.

When the chemistry class confused mn and mg, Mrs. Thorne would show a little trick to help them remember and then ask, "Do you think you can remember that?"

Sometimes in typing, patience wore thin and gave way to anger. Mrs. Windley would calm the situation with this recitation, "Stop hitting the typewriter! If you want to play, go home and get your rattler and play in your play pen. These typewriters cost $280."

In their lessons in the kitchen when the girls were stirring some concoction rather cautiously, Mrs. Faison would say "Don't be afraid. It's not going to bite you!"

"Mercy!" exclaimed Mr. Wilson when things got a little out of hand. Yet he somehow usually managed to get the Glee Club back on key.



CLASSES

It is in the classroom that most school hours are spent. Perhaps that is the reason why thoughts of school days usually center around the classroom. Here are captured some of the familiar everyday scenes-some where laughter echoes throughout; others where the students are engaged in serious thought or study. Yet they represent a definite part in the search for knowledge.

Juniors

The thought of being upper classmen at last was a real thrill to the Juniors. But along with the upperclassmen distinction came new responsibilities and activities. There was more studying to do, and so much more was expected of them.

The mad whirl of class activities kept the Juniors on the go. They sponsored dances, served suppers, sold stationery, and operated the concession stand at games.

Class rings were, of course, an added mark of distinction. Then there were those hours and hours of planning and working to give the Seniors a perfect Junior-Senior.

Finally, there was the daisy chain and graduation which brought an end to all these activities. But for the Juniors all these events are treasured memories.

Seniors

One day during the fall of 1956 marked the beginning of a very important era in the lives of the present Senior Class of Weldon High School. We had finally reached our last plateau in our public school education-our entrance into high school. In spite of excellent counseling by our homeroom teachers we found it very difficult to know exactly where we were supposed to be at the right time. To make matters worse, there were only forty-two of us, and we felt very small indeed. We regarded the Seniors with much awe and admiration. How big they seemed! Why, they knew just about everything.

Soon we settled down into the daily schedule of home work, classes and school activities. We were introduced to literature, and before long we knew we were well on our way to the levels of higher learning when we could quote from memory, "Water, water, everywhere, And all the boards did shrink; Water, water, everywhere, Nor any drop to drink." The Home Ec. girls made another great accomplishment when at last they finished all that bias and put the finishing touches on their first garments-cobblers' aprons. Changing classes was a new adventure for us, and we found that this made our days go by much faster than they had previously. We began taking part in clubs and athletics, having five on the football team and two on the girls' basketball team.

When we reached the tenth grade we knew everything. How silly of us not to have noticed in the ninth grade how smart those sophomores were! And we were positive we could never have been as mixed up as those poor little freshmen. By now we were well represented in all the clubs and organizations. This year we had four girls on the basketball

We became acquainted with Mark Antony's "Friends, Romans, and countrymen . . . " and the innumerable values of "x" in Algebra 1. We performed delicate operations on frogs, crayfish, grasshoppers, and other creatures in biology.

And then we were Juniors. With no time to lose, we elected our officers, and with the guidance of Mrs. Joyner and Mrs. Windley, things began to roll. Immediately, preparations for the Junior-Senior began. A theme and a date were decided upon; committees were appointed and began to function. To make money we had dances, sold refreshments at ball games, had a paper drive, served suppers and sold stationery, brunswick stew, and magazines. We had one setback that no Juniors before us have been faced with-ours was the thirteenth Junior-

Senior. We had to overcome many obstacles that we undoubtedly would not have had except for this fact. But in spite of sagging streamers and walls that threatened to fall any minute, we triumphed over superstition and presented to the Seniors a beautiful "Cinderella Ball". Other highlights of the year were receiving class rings and making and presenting the daisy chain. Besides these Junior activities, we still found time to participate in the extra-curricular activities. And oh! The Homework! For the first time we came to a full understanding of the word "work". We learned much this year not only scholastically but also in living and working together.

Finally we became Seniors, enjoying all the honors and privileges that accompany this title, especially that of being first in the lunch line. We have discovered that with these privileges we have many responsibilities as we have served in leading positions in school activities and sports. The year has passed very quickly for us, and now we are just about ready to graduate, having mastered Macbeth and having experienced the satisfaction that comes when the whole French II class makes 100 on a vocabulary test-once. With the help of Mrs. Wallace, we have been busy filling out blanks, blanks, and more blanks in preparation for future jobs or college. Our caps and gowns are fitted, ready to be worn once more at graduation. Our invitations are addressed and ready to mail. We have advanced a long way in our education since we entered Weldon High School in 1956. We realize now that Seniors are not so old and wise after all, and we are just beginning to understand how little we actually do know!

ACTIVITIES

School clubs and activities also help round out the students' lives. Through these clubs and activities the students develop a sense of responsibility and acquire leadership skills. Each organization and its leaders make commendable contributions to the school and the student body. Work, initiative, and co-operation are combined to make school clubs and activities worthwhile.

Each student at W. H. S. has a chance to voice his opinion and offer suggestions to the Student Council, always present to serve the school. Every member of this organization is well aware of the importance of his job for through his hands pass many of the problems of student life.

Searching for solutions to these problems opens wide many avenues of constructive thinking, critical but tolerant attitudes and responsibilities of leadership. With the wise counsel of its sponsor, Mrs. Savage, and the capable leadership of its president, Dottie Shugart, the Student Council has done a splendid job this year.

Beta Club

When character, leadership, and scholarship are added, the sum can't be anything but a "Beta". Every member is an earnest student, hard-working and faithful, keeping this the outstanding organization it has always been. Serving the school, community, state, and nation is the goal set by Betas, and then achieving that goal is the real thrill of being a "Beta".

In addition to many other service projects the W. H. S. Betas enjoy sponsoring the annual, operating the "Little Store", helping with the pre-school clinic and contributing to the National Beta Educational Fund. However, their greatest aim is to build citizenship by seeking truth, exploring knowledge and co-operating with fellow students.

The clacking of typewriters, making appointments for picture-taking, or hunting in vain for that lost copy is all a part of the life of the members of the annual staff to meet that deadline on time. The results are really worthwhile when a student says, "Patsy, this Little Breeze is the greatest!"

The Hi-Lites Staff of Weldon High School is working under a new plan this year. Instead of publishing a monthly paper, they collect and edit the news in our local paper, "The Roanoke News", twice monthly. This is a nice arrangement because the news is more current and there are no mimeographing headaches. The Hi-Lites Staff works tirelessly to bring us the latest happenings around school. They put in many long, hard hours before the students see their finished product, The Weldon Hi-Lites.

This year, the P. T. A. again sponsored the Harvest Festival in November which provided a night of entertainment for all ages of the community. In addition, the P. T. Lunchroom

The heart of Weldon High is the lunchroom, not solely because teenage appetites can be satisfied there, but because every student gets special attention from Mrs. Keeter. She knows who likes two weiners or an extra roll or who is trying to gain or lose weight. Always she serves, regardless of the multitudinous interruptions throughout the morning, on time and with a smile.

To help Mrs. Keeter do her job so well are some able assistants: Eloise Bryant, Faye Lucas, Maybel Hux and Brenda Wise. Also her full-time helpers, Essie Mae Locust, and the janitor, Wesley Boone, render invaluable help.

Standing-Bobby Price, Bus 12-Mark Garriss, Bus 81-Charles Barnhill, Bus 14-Linwood Scott, Bus 18-Ronnie Taylor, Substitute. Not Shown, Tommy Wallace, Bus 108.

Considering the hours these boys probably went to bed and they had to get up to drive the buses, it's no wonder they often slept through classes. Their promptness and dependability were appreciated by both faculty and students.

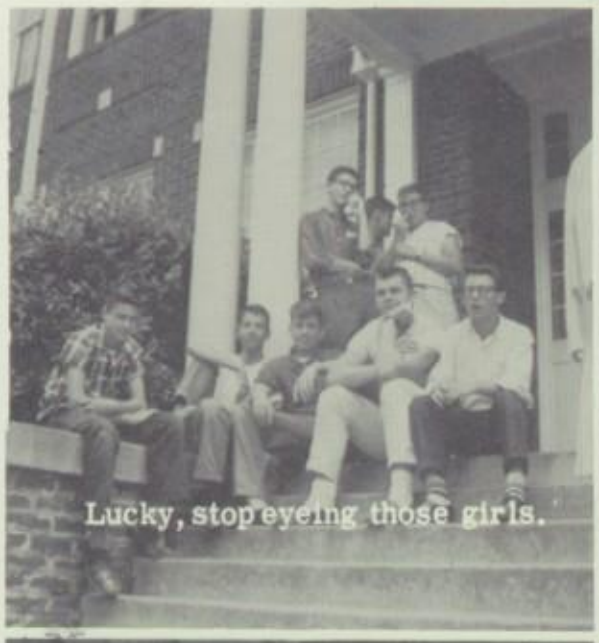
Librarians

Without our staff of efficient and well-trained librarians the Weldon High School library would be in confusion. Under Mrs. Katrine Wallace's direction and help these girls keep our library functioning properly. They are always ready and willing to help you find or renew a book. They keep the books and magazines in order too. Their cheerful help and fast service bring much praise from both the faculty and the students of Weldon High School.

Seated-Shirley Hartsoe, Marie Johnson. Standing-Patsy Coker, Cornelia Boseman, Patsy Howell, Patsy Turner, Thelma Brown, Vicky Mayle, Carolyn Howell, Becky Willey, Sandra Thompson, and Glenda Whitman.

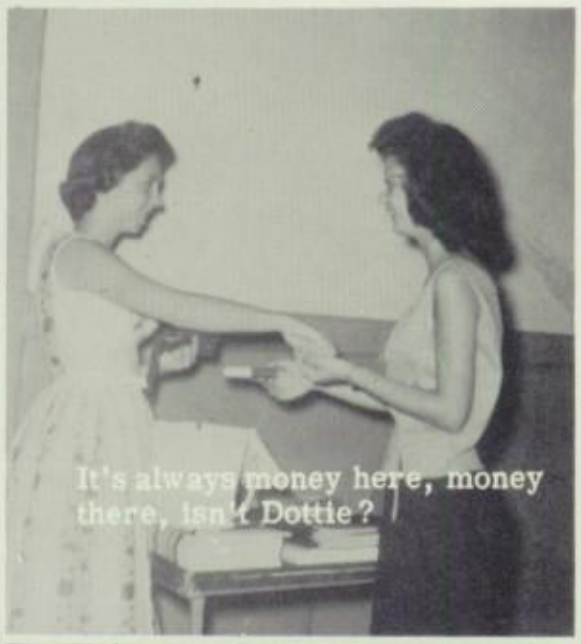
Such little hats for such big heads.

Vicki, you know you know how to boil water.

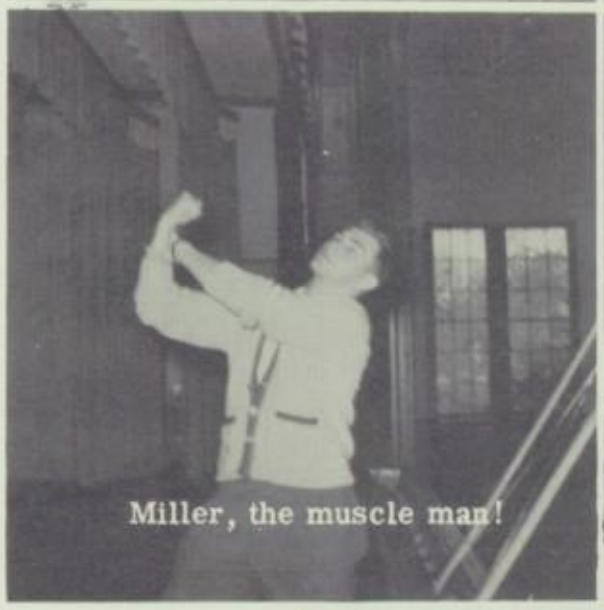


Lucky, stop eyeing those girls.

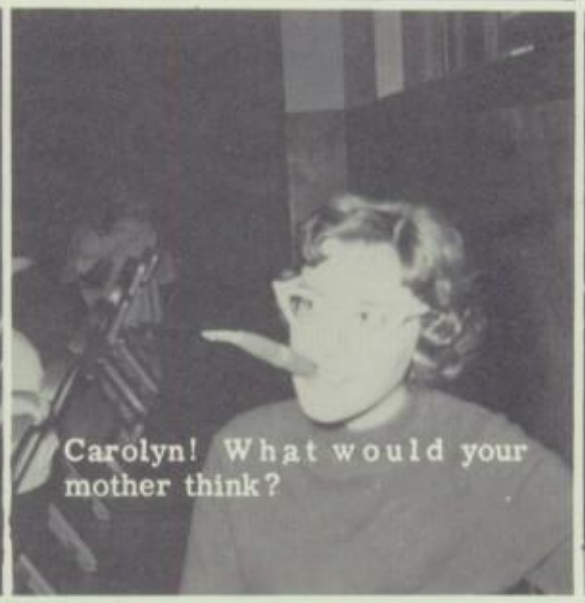
Hey Man, where you from?



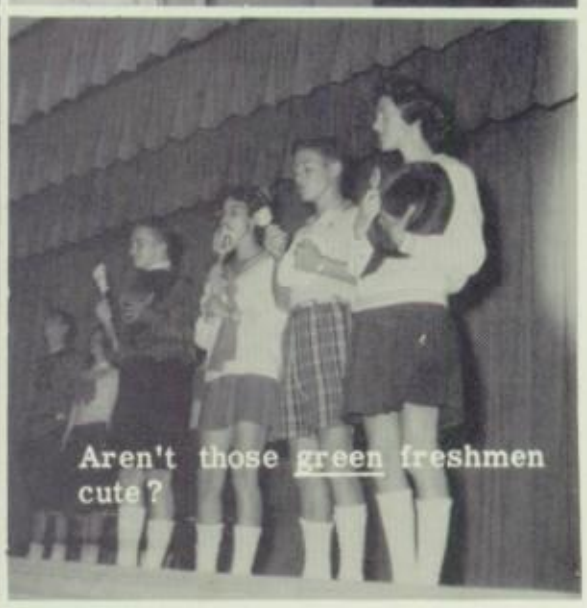
It's always money here, money there, isn't Dottie?



Miller, the muscle man!



Carolyn! What would your mother think?



Aren't those green freshmen cute?

Scratch it Johnny, Scratch it!

That's a mighty big drum you have there, Nita.

ATHLETICS

In addition to the guidance and learning, the Weldon High School students received in the classroom, a good athletic program also broadens their scope of knowledge and develops and molds their characters. The students can be justly proud of the athletic program, for it is not only a record of skill but also of fair play. Under the skilled and wise coaching of Mr. Parker and Mr. Davis, minds and bodies were developed simultaneously.

The Junior Varsity

Jack Joyner

Our Junior Varsity this year has worked hard to build up a good record and to gain experience for the years to come. Under Jack Joyner's excellent leadership and coaching they have progressed rapidly, and will be valued members of varsity teams of the future. The team is composed of boys from the eighth, ninth, and tenth grades. They have done a really fine job this year and deserve much praise.

FEATURES

These are the highlights of the school year--some of the most cherished memories. Events such as the Junior-Senior, Homecoming, and the Snowflake Ball are anticipated with excitement, weeks before the "big night" actually comes. And when it finally does come, for a few hours there is nothing but blissful happiness. Yes, these are moments to remember.

"Like the bee we should make our industry our amusement."

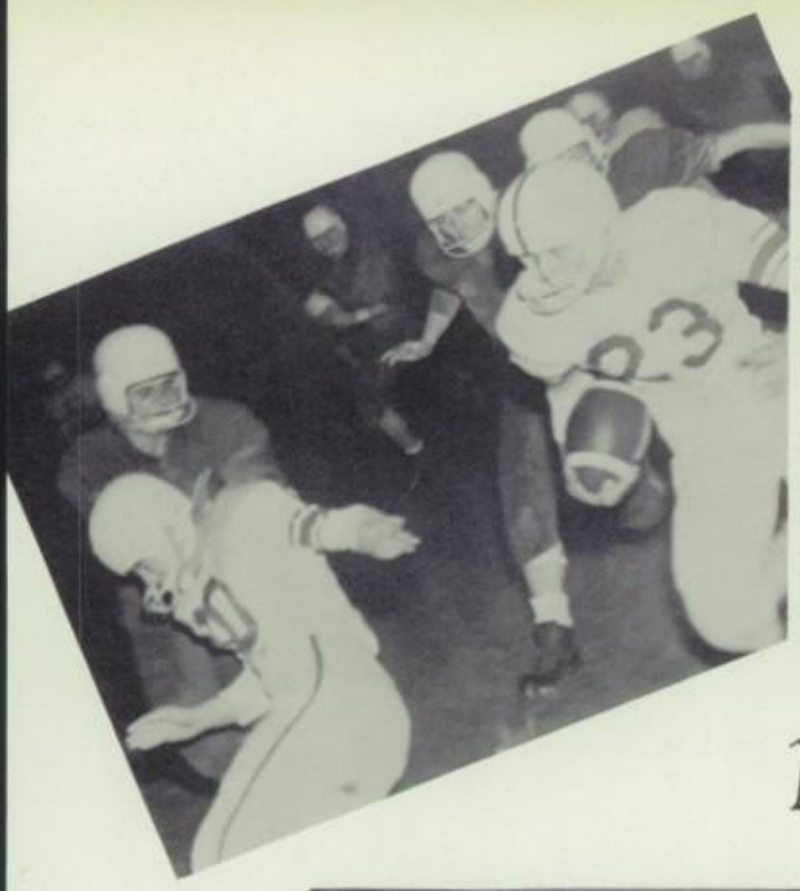
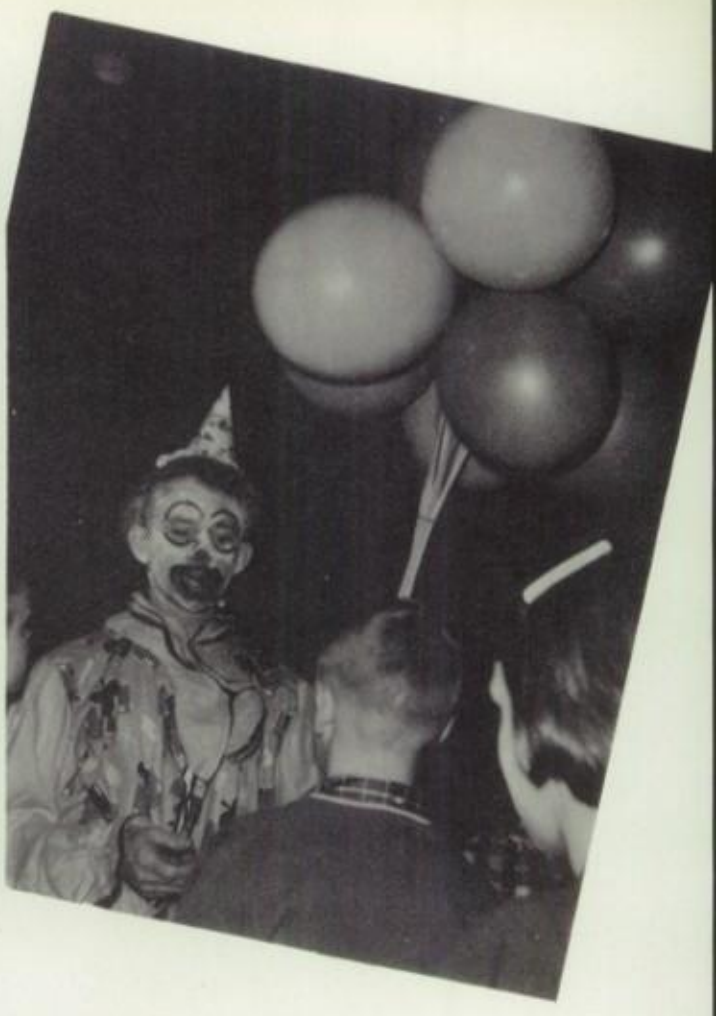
The Homecoming Queen

Frances Patricia Turner

The Homecoming Queen and King--Patsy Turner and Bobby Price--were chosen by the popular vote of the student body. The queen and king were crowned on November 13, 1959 at the Homecoming Dance.



Homecoming



Harvest Festival

Christmas Parade

This year the school and community again staged a Christmas parade sponsored by the Weldon Jaycees. Participating in the parade were city officials, various bands, cheerleaders, majorettes, school and community representatives, and even Santa Claus! To add to the color and gaiety of the occasion were floats and cars ridden by the Miss Jaycees and her court and by several Misses "Holiday" from surrounding schools. A spirit of cooperation between the school and community made this Christmas program possible for the second year.

As a part of the Christmas parade, candidates from the Junior and Senior homerooms competed for the Miss Jaycees title. Lois Evans, of the Junior Class, won this honor and rode in the parade, representing a bond of cooperation between school and community.

The Little Breeze Queen

Following the precedent begun last year, the annual staff and faculty members voted Patsy Turner "The Little Breeze Queen" of 1960.

Patsy well deserves this honor merited by her adherence to the ideals of the annual staff and her interest in serving her school through many avenues.

The Snowflake Ball

"The Snowflake Ball" sponsored by the Little Breeze Staff marked a new event on the school calendar this year. The holiday spirit pervaded the evening and set the stage for the crowning of the "Little Breeze" queen. Among the goodbyes were expressions of hope that such an evening would be repeated next Christmas.

Weldon High School Favorites

Jerry Miller and Dottie Shugart

Another innovation this year -- "The Favorites of Weldon High". The choice was made by the subscribers to "The Little Breeze" when they voted on candidates elected by each homeroom. The tabulation made, the students had honored Dottie and Jerry with this coveted title.

I REMEMBER WHEN

Weldon High School

Another year in our search for knowledge in Weldon High School has ended. For some of us it is the end of our search in high school, while many will continue their schooling and go to greater achievements in life, but we will never end our search for knowledge.

The students of Weldon High School are privileged to be under the supervision of a fine group of helpful and capable teachers. They do a wonderful job in leading us to the right path in life. It is to them that we owe much for whatever success we attain in this phase of our lives.

I would like to thank the Staff of the 1960 Little Breeze for their support and assistance. Each one has helped to make this edition possible.

Mrs. W. B. Joyner, our advisor, has contributed more than her share of hard work in the publication of the 1960 Little Breeze. We, the Staff, would like to express our appreciation for her guidance and loyalty throughout this year.

I would also like to thank Mr. Thomas, Miss Cheatham, Mr. Davis, the teachers, Roscoe Turner, Mr. F. M. Combs, the students, and many others for their patience and co-operation.

I hope that this Volume XIII of the Little Breeze has captured phases of student life that will remain in this book and your hearts for years to come.

ADVERTISEMENTS

The world of today is filled with scores of new inventions and products that have improved the mode of living. All these new things have been developed from old things by new ideas.

Man is forever looking for new and improved ways of living. New ideas come from the ingenuity of men and women who, but a few short years ago, were students in America's high schools.

This yearbook is the story of students who, too, will someday make valuable contributions to the world through their new ideas. But it would not be possible to tell this story if it were not for those who have supported the yearbook program through their advertisements in the "Little Breeze".

To you, the patrons, the Weldon High School and the "Little Breeze" staff express their appreciation. Your support is vital; it has made this yearbook possible.

As you are representatives of the fine inventions and products that are on the markets of today, it is with pride that your advertisements are part of the 1960 "Little Breeze".
